THE LOBBYISTS' PLANS

With the assembling of the Legislature scarcely more than a month away, it becomes more and more evident that those lobbyists who, for several sessions of the Kentucky general assembly have reigned supreme about the legislative halls, are pluming their dark feathers for the final struggle to prevent the people from controlling the making of their laws, by endeavoring to defeat attempts to carry out pledges which the Democrats of Kentucky made to the people when they were carried to victory in the recent election. The Lobbyists or Third House, are planning for a desperate effort to save themselves being thrown bodily from the corridors of the new state capitol at the coming session.

The first step in their campaign is to secure the election of a Speaker in the lower House, who is friendly to them, and whom they can control in the appointment of committees to which bills are referred. A bill sent by the Speaker to an unfavorable committee might never see the light of day or have chance for passage, no matter how strong the membership of the house may be for its enactment. Always anxious to secure good men for their dark purposes, the Third House has chosen Hon. Harry Schoberth of Woodford county, as their candidate for Speaker. Now Mr. Schoberth is a most estimable young man in every way, save the pliancy with which he is lending himself as a tool in the hands of the Third House. His friends out in the State who know him well are amazed that he is willing to permit the clique which is endeavoring to elect him Speaker to stand as his sponsors. However such is undoubtedly the case, and if Mr. Schoberth is elected Speaker the old lobby, or Third House, headed by members of the State Board of Prison Commissioners, and certain others of that ilk, who flourish in legislative times, will be as supreme as if the Democratic state platform had been wholly silent upon their business, and committed to continue them in power rather than scourge them from the temple. No matter, how much Governor McCreary and his splendid administration may endeavor to redeem every pledge they made to the people of the Commonwealth, they will find themselves balked on every hand by these men, who, in secret, fought the nomination of the governor in the beginning, and have been opposed to the men who have been his staunchest friends, ever since they (the lobbyists) found out that they could not control them.

The leading members of the Third House are bending might and main to elect Mr. Schoberth Speaker. The Democratic State platform is committed to removing the Board of Prison Commissioners from politics by taking the appointment of the members from the legislature, and vesting it in the hands of the Governor where it rightly belongs. If the present Prison Commission can control the election of the Speaker and thus obtain mastery over the proceedings of the House, they plan to repudiate this plank in the Democratic platform as completely as if it had never been written. Members of the board have been working night and day in an endeavor to elect Schoberth Speaker. They have made personal trips to talk with members of the legislature, and line them up for their man and their plan. One was recently in this section of the state and summoned members of the legislature by telephone to confer with him.

An effort has been made to induce Representative Will H. Shanks, of this county, to align himself with the opposition to Gov. McCreary's administration, or if he would not openly espouse their cause, to so muddy the waters as to lead others to doubt the real issues which are before the members of the legislature. Mr. Shanks is a candidate for Speaker, but he is heart and soul for the redemption of every pledge made by the Democratic party to the people of the state, and will have nothing to do with the effort which is being made to prevent certain of the pledges from being fulfilled. He stands square with the administration for the removal of the Prison Commission from the legislature, for tax reform, for the direct primary, the county unit bill, and roads and every other plank upon which the Democratic party made its winning fight. Mr. Shanks is thoroughly on his guard against the Third House and we believe that there are enough members of the General Assembly like him, to see that the lobbyists do not gain the mastery they seek, but who will stand by Gov. McCreary and his administration in their efforts to make good their promises to the people.

The Cynthia Democrat celebrates itself upon the installation of electric motors to furnish all its power. The Interior Journal certainly wishes it could do the same, and hopes to very soon for the Stanford water, light and ice Co., promises to furnish its patrons a 24-hour current within a very short time. Not only the I. J., but many other power users in Stanford will undoubtedly take advantage of the day current. J. R. Powell says that he will discard gasoline engines at his big planing and saw mill just east of town and there are a great many others who will want to put motors to work at once for there is no power obtainable as convenient, clean and economical in the long run as electricity. The women will find it splendid for operating churns, sewing machines, toasters and great variety of household purposes, at a very slight cost. Stanford will really begin to assume progressive airs when a reliable power like this is obtainable.

Editor R. R. Perry, of the Winchester News, and Sun-Sentinel, in telling why he is a republican, observes that "the Democratic Representatives from Kentucky are not of a caliber to inspire confidence, and we assume that they are a fair sample of those from other states." We would like to have Brother Perry's honest, candid opinion of how such men as Ollie James, Swager Sherry, Harvey Helm or any of the other Democratic congressmen compare with "promissory" John Langley or Caleb Powers, the republican members from Kentucky.
